

Tasks for students of International faculty,
specialty of “Dentistry”
“The locomotor system”

Topic. Temporal, infratemporal, pterygo-palatine fossae, its borders, connections. Skull as whole. Counterforces of the skull.

1. Purulence of orbit soft tissues took place after an eye's trauma. Through what anatomical formation can the purulent process spread to the pterygopalatine fossa?

- A. Through the round foramen
- B. Through the inferior orbital fissure
- C. Through the pterygoid canal
- D. Through the superior orbital fissure
- E. Through the zygomaticoorbital foramen

B. Through the inferior orbital fissure

